Project:

Project Name: Mobile Number Portability System:

Mobile Number Portability (MNP) is a service that allows mobile phone users to switch from one mobile network operator to another while keeping their existing phone number. This means that you don't have to change your number if you decide to switch to a different carrier due to better plans, coverage, or customer service. Using languages: Python, Sql and Html.

Freedom of Choice to Users can switch from one mobile network operator to another without changing their mobile number. Users are no longer stuck with poor service due to fear of losing their number. Programming Languages I used Python and SQL for the Backend and HTML, CSS for the Frontend develop

I learned how telecom operators coordinate to allow users to switch providers without changing their mobile numbers, and the regulatory importance behind this process. And also I learned how to implement security measures like OTP verification and encryption to prevent fraud during the porting process.
